Still Time To Get The Companion For $1.75.

The publishers of The Youth's Companion announce that they will accept yearly subscriptions at $1.75 up to the end of March. The new rate of $2.00 will go into effect promptly on April 1. The large number whose subscriptions run over into the early weeks of the year, as well as those who were unable to send in new subscriptions before January 1, will have this opportunity to get The Companion for another fifty-two weeks at the old price. If you had no other periodical reading for your family, The Youth's Companion would be sufficient—sufficient for keen enjoyment by every one, young and old; sufficient to keep you posted on the important news and events of the day; sufficient to give you a mind richly stored with useful knowledge. The new departments have become indispensable features of the paper. The page devoted to the interests of boys in school and college always has an article of expert advice on athletics by some one who speaks with authority, whether it is football, baseball, skating, swimming, or other vigorous pastime. The page for girls suggests useful occupations at home and profitable occupations in the community, without forgetting that girls like to be ornamental as well as useful. And there is the family page, which in the course of a year fills the place of a domestic encyclopedia.

Subscribe now—today—while The Companion may yet be had for $1.75.

Escaped With His Life.

"Twenty years ago I faced an awful death," writes H. B. Martin, Port Harrelson, S. C. "Doctors said I had consumption, and the dreadful cough I had looked like it, sure enough. I tried everything I could hear of for my cough and was under the treatment of the best doctor in Georgetown, S. C., for a year, but could get no relief. A friend advised me to try Dr. King's New Discovery. I did so, and was completely cured. I feel that I owe my life to this great throat and lung cure." It's positively guaranteed for coughs, colds, and all bronchial affections. 50 cents and $1. Trial bottle free at R. L. Sharp's.

that he was talking to the only living man that, in his own estimation, knows everything.

President Taft is trying to sidetrack the tariff issue and raise the trust question. If there is anything that President Taft is ashamed of in the record of his administration, it is the tariff record he and his party have made. The battle which has for its object the winning of the Presidency this year is now on. Mr. Taft like all other stalwart Republicans is doing everything in his power to obscure and sidetrack the tariff issue so that the great monopolies and trusts can continue enriching themselves at the expense of the public. The people of this country are now thoroughly convinced that the robber tariff under which we are now living and suffering is the mother of the trusts. The Republican party and President Taft do not want that old "mother" harmed, but they want her to live in health and flourish while he goes thru the operation of painting harmless red streaks on her offspring, the trusts, like a clown at a circus, and tries to make the public believe that those painted stripes are real cuts. By the enforcement of the anti-trust law the Standard Oil trust and the Tobacco trust are supposed to have dissolved and to be cut into several pieces. But they are not cuts at all, but merely painted stripes, entirely harmless, and the Standard Oil and Tobacco trusts are doing business and gouging the people just the same way and for the benefit of the same people as they did before they were theoretically dissolved by the Supreme Court. The Democratic doctrine is to lower the tariff so that the great corporations of this country, which now control the necessities of life, will have to sell those necessities at reasonable prices, else we will buy them abroad. It has been clearly demonstrated that no industry of this country needs protection from tariff laws, because our factories are already selling goods abroad cheaper than they do to the American consumer, so that the tariff merely enables them to plunder the American people. Mr. Taft and the Republican party cannot sidetrack the tariff issue.

hundred thousand men for thirty years. The Cheops pyramid occupies a space of twelve and three-quarters acres and is 746 feet high. —Los Angeles, Cal., Tribune.

Emile Berliner, the noted inventor of Washington, D. C., says: "The goal today is to get heat direct from an electric current. A little machine, some time, set up in one's cellar, will light and heat one's house and supply one's wife with power with which to do her sewing, launder her linen and run her sweeping and dusting apparatus. Electricians are working on that problem. Those who are not working are prophesying its solution. It will simplify house-keeping, and cheapen it, too, I think, but it will be hard on the coal dealer and the owner of gas stock."

Madam Dethebes, of Paris, France, reported to be the "world's greatest seeress," in her forecast for 1912, predicts that the very "devil" will be to pay over the world. According to her prophecies, this is to be the "black year;" nations will be upheaved; a great European war is to be fought; the high cost of living will go higher; France will be surrounded by blood and fire; the German emperor will lose his crown; Spain will have plots and counterplots; England has a bad destiny in store for her; the present government of the United States will be knocked down and rolled in the dust of defeat; Asia and other countries will be politically turned upside down. She says: "The cataclysm foreseen is so great, so widespread, that it is dangerous even to speak of it, lest it be precipitated. We will be forewarned by a trembling of the earth, and we shall know that the end of our troubles is in sight when most of the necessities of life are wanting."

Kill More Than Wild Beasts.

The number of people killed yearly by wild beasts don't approach the vast number killed by disease germs. No life is safe from their attacks. They're in air, water, dust, even food. But grand protection is afforded by Electric Bitters, which destroy and expel these deadly disease germs from the system. That's why chills, fever and ague, all malarial and many blood diseases yield promptly to this wonderful blood purifier. Try them and enjoy the glorious health and new strength they'll give you. tended to the purchasing public, for it has brought hopping facilities of the cities within the reach of every one in the country. No doubt your express companies will suffer; but it is not an anomaly that it costs more to send a parcel from New York to San Francisco by express than it does from London to, say, China by parcels post? Even parcels from London to different parts in the United States cost less for postage than the express charges in the country. If the express companies can make a profit on English parcels after deducting cost of freight by steamer across the Atlantic, they are surely charging too much for carriage of parcels in this country. It is surprising to us that a practical people should have so long been kept out of parcels post, and submitted to exorbitant express charges. No one in Europe would for one moment advocate doing away with the advantages we now derive from parcels post. I hope you may also soon share the same benefits with us.

The Rev. Irl R. Hicks 1912 Almanac.

Before the great drouth of 1901, the Hicks Almanac gave timely warning. For over two years prior to 1911, the Hicks Almanac again sounded a warning of drouth danger. And so for forty years this same friend of all the people has steadfastly refused the offers of speculators and continued to warn the public of the coming dangers of storm and weather. As they should have done, the people have nobly stood by Professor Hicks, their faithful public servant, who has grown old in their service. Send only one dollar to WORD AND WORKS PUBLISHING COMPANY, 3401 Franklin Avenue, St. Louis, Missouri, and get his Magazine and Almanac both for one year. The Almanac alone, a fine book of 150 pages, is only 85 cents by mail. Let everybody respond and receive the warnings of our National Seer for the coming year.

Announcement was made at Lexington, last Friday, that the Burley Tobacco Society had put over another record breaking sale when they closed a deal for the sale of 800,000 pounds of the 1909 crop of pooled tobacco to independent buyers, said to have been former members of the American Tobacco Company. The price realized, while not officially announced, is said to have been not less than 16½ cents per pound straight.

on the wall. No man can realize anything at such times.

Andrew said he must be going, after Amabel had begun to wonder if he was going to talk about the weather and the latest book all evening.

"Must you go, really?" she asked, brightly. "Wait just a moment. I have something for you."

She went into another room, then came back with a small package, which she handed to him.

"Just a little Christmas remembrance," she smiled. "You won't mind."

"Just a Little Christmas Remembrance."

mind getting it ahead of time, will you? Such good friends as you and I needn't wait for Christmas day itself, need we?"

She carefully stood immediately beneath a spray of mistletoe when she said this, but Andrew did not notice it. This is further proof that love is blind.

"Thank you," Andrew mumbled, nervously. "I—I wish you a merry Christmas, Amabel."

"That's nice of you, and I hope you like the little gift. It really isn't a gift, Andrew. It's just a necktie I made for you myself. I wish it could have been something nicer—but you'll let the sentiment that goes with it count for what it lacks in value or beauty, won't you?"

She carelessly reached up and adjusted the spray of mistletoe, smiling also at Andrew. Andrew stood there, turning the package over and over in his hands, blind as ever. What Amabel thought we never will know. There must be times while a woman is landing a man that she is so enraged with his obtuseness that she would keenly enjoy thumping him on the head with a shovel.

Andrew got his eyes away from her a long enough to ask:

"Are you going to have a Christmas tree?"

"No. We're old-fashioned, you know. We're just going to hang up our stockings in front of the grate, and let Santa come right down the chimney. I love those old customs, don't you?"

As she spoke of the old customs she once more pushed the spray of mistletoe up into place. This time Andrew saw it, and away down deep in his heart he wished he were just a good friend of Amabel's.

Why not play Santa Claus, take the ring to Amabel's home, climb in a side window from the porch, deposit the ring and a note in her stocking? This would make her feel that he had planned it all as a real Christmas surprise for her. A Christmas gift and a Christmas proposal all at once would certainly appeal to the romantic side of any girl.

So he wrote his note, wrapped it about the ring, replaced the ring and the note in the little box, wrapped it up, and betook himself to Amabel's home.

The porch from which he planned to effect his surreptitious entrance was a side one. He remembered that last summer Amabel's father had said he must have the catch on the window repaired. He knew perfectly well Amabel's father hadn't done so—for he knew Amabel's father was like all men.

Through the side yard and over the porch rail he went. The window he found unfastened. Carefully he raised it and felt his way into the room. To

IF YOU ARE GIVING MONEY

Here Are Some Unique Ways of Presenting It Without Causing Any Embarrassment.

In many instances the gift of money is the very best for both the giver and the receiver. Just how to give it is often a perplexing question. To a young person who plays "bridge" an indulgent uncle sent a pack of cards—between the cards were ten $5 bills. The cards were enclosed in a pretty heart-shaped box and bore this inscription: "For the Queen of Hearts." A dainty gift-book may be used as a place of concealment for bills of any denomination.

A clever conceit was a hall of silver cord, with instructions to unwind each day until a tiny package was reached. Pill boxes containing coins were wound within, and funny jingles with each. There were boxes to last seven days, and thus the Christmas mystery was prolonged. This was an especially happy thought, as the recipient was temporarily a "shut-in." An umbrella was sent, having written on an attached card: "For a rainy day." When the umbrella was opened a $10 bill was found securely wrapped around the handle.—Woman's World.

More Blessed to Give.

"Stingy?" repeated the Neighborhood Gossip. "Is old man Titewadd stingy? Why, did you hear what he gave his wife for a Christmas present? He let her go to the dentist that morning and have ten aching teeth pulled, knowing very well that it would prevent her eating any of the Christmas dinner."

Fitted into Ma's Stocking.

Auntie Grace—What a lovely foot-ball! Did Santa Claus put that in your stocking?"

Harry—No; he couldn't get it in, so he put it in Ma's instead."

"Oh, Andrew!" And she then allowed herself to fall into his arms.

That there was much excited conversation in the hall, that men were running around the house and peering into dark corners in the basement and in the upper rooms was something of which Andrew and Amabel were entirely unaware. Mr. and Mrs. Tuttle came back, after the officers had gone away utterly bewildered. Even they had been so excited that the presence of Andrew struck them as nothing unusual. Amabel's shy but delighted announcement of her engagement was received merrily, however. In fact, father and mother Tuttle and the young people got so deep in their plans for the future that they almost forgot the incident until suddenly Mr. Tuttle said:

"I wonder who the dickens that burglar was, anyhow?"

"I—I'll bet it was me!" Andrew stammered.

"Well, I must fix that window tomorrow," Mr. Tuttle decided.

AT THE PECKS.

"Humph!" said Mrs. Henry Peck. "This paper has a lot of alleged jokes about women giving their husbands cigars for Christmas presents. I think that any woman who is fool enough to give her husband a box of the things ought to—Why, where has Henry gone?"

But Henry was out in the hall shaking hands with himself.

Sad Case.

A fellow who lived on the isthmus, was bothered somewhat by strabismus.

He said: "It is sad, that my eyes, which are bad, see New Year when looking at Christmas."

A Christmas Thought.

I am thinking of you today because it is Christmas, and I wish you happiness. And tomorrow, because it will be the day after Christmas, I shall still wish you happiness, and so on clear through the year.—Henry Van Dyke.

stepped forward into the show ring, and carried off the Stillwell trophy and $1,000 for the best potatoes on the continent. This time the winner was a British Columbia man, Mr. Asabel Smith, the "Potato King," of that province. The exhibit consisted of one hundred and one varieties drawn from all parts of the province aggregating in weight one and a half tons.

At the recent Dry Farming Congress, held at Colorado Springs, and at which time it was decided to hold the next Congress at Lethbridge, in 1912, the Province of Alberta made a wonderful showing of grains, grasses and vegetables.

"At the Congress, Alberta got more prizes and trophies, ten to one, than any state of the Union," said Mr. Hotchkiss to the Edmonton Bulletin. "We brought back all but the building with us, and they offered us that, saying we might as well take all that was going. We would have brought it along, too, if we had had a flat car to put it on. Alberta captured nearly 50 first prizes, 20 seconds, 3 thirds, 9 cups, 40 medals, 50 ribbons and 2 sweepstakes. The grand sweepstake prize, for the best exhibit by state or province, a magnificent silver cup, was presented to us with much ceremony at a reception to the Canadians in the Empress hotel. The presentation was made by Prof. Olin, chairman of the judging committee, and the cup was received on behalf of the province by the Hon. Duncan Marshall.

Question for Question.

"I shall discharge our butler," said Mr. Cumrox.

"What's the trouble?"

"He doesn't show me proper deference. When I am paying a man liberally, I consider it his duty to laugh at my jokes."

"And won't he?"

"I don't think he can. He's an English butler. When in a spirit of gentle and condescending badinage I said to him, 'Hawkins, can you tell me which came first, the chicken or the egg?' he said, 'Which did you order first, sir?'"

It isn't until a man reaches the age of discretion that he discovers he can have a good time without suffering for it the next morning.

in. Baste in the fold; then turn the other curtain in exactly the same way and by the same measurement.

If they are sash curtains, run in a double row of sewing, three-quarters of an inch apart, into which you can run small brass rods.

If for long windows, curtain pins should be placed about three inches apart, so that they may be hung on the rings, or, if preferred, they can be run on rods also, especially if there is a heavy curtain to go over them.

After you have done the first pair or two you will not mind in the least doing the work, and you will be many dollars in pocket at the end of the curtain washing season.

Turkey in the Pan Breast Down.

The best way to make a turkey is to make it with the breast down. In this way all the fine flavoring of the turkey, the juice of the dressing and all the daintier juices flow down toward the breast of the fowl, and when the white meat is served you get the full benefit of every flavor added during the processes of preparing and baking the turkey, in addition to the distinctive taste of the fowl itself. If you desire to place the fowl on the table before carving, you will find that it will look quite as well as it would if baked in the usual way, and certainly it will taste much better.—Housekeeper.

Nut Jumbles.

Take one pound of butter, one pound of sugar, and beat them to a cream, then add two eggs, a small glassful of milk, and flour enough to roll them out like cookies (as thin as possible). Brush the top of each jumble with the beaten yolk of an egg, into which sprinkle some granulated sugar mixed with a small portion of cinnamon, and on the top sprinkle some chopped almonds. Bake in a good oven until a delicate brown. Take care they do not get too brown.

For Greasing Cake Tins.

Take a small round tin box with a tight cover. Bore a hole in cover through which insert the handle of a small paint brush, so that the brush may reach nearly to the bottom of the box. By keeping a little lard in the box and putting it on the stove for a minute before using, the cake tins can be greased quickly and without soiling the hands, while the close cover of the box keeps all dust from the brush.—Suburban Life.

Honey Candy.

Put half a pound of honey into a saucepan, add half a pound of sugar, one tablespoonful of cream and a dessertspoonful of cold water, then mix and stir well. Allow to stand for one hour. Put over a moderate fire, stirring gently until it is stiff enough to pull. Pour into buttered tins. When cool enough to handle pull and cut into small pieces.

Breakfast Biscuit.

To a half cup of melted butter, a little salt and two teaspoonfuls of baking powder add one quart of milk and flour enough to make a stiff batter. Do not knead to make into dough. Drop from a spoon into buttered pans and bake in a hot oven, as only a quick oven will make them light and tender.

Somewhat Inconsistent.

The young woman had spent a busy day. She had browbeaten fourteen sales-people, bullyragged a shop-walker, argued victoriously with a milliner, laid down the law to a modiste, nipped in the bud a taxi chauffeur's attempt to overcharge her, made a street car conductor stop the car in the middle of a non-stop run for her, discharged her maid and engaged another, and otherwise refused to allow herself to be imposed upon. Yet she did not smile that evening when a young man begged:

"Let me be your protector through life!"

Precise.

The proofreader on a small middle-western daily was a woman of great precision and extreme propriety. One day a reporter succeeded in getting into type an item about "Willie Brown, the boy who was hanged in the West end by a live wire."

On the following day the reporter found on his desk a frigid note asking, "Which is the west end of a boy?"

It took only an instant to reply—"The end the son sets on, of course."

Husband Was Willing.
The Scot has no monopoly of domestic felicity, as many a piquant paragraph bears witness. The other day an old farmer and his wife were "doing" the sights of a provincial town, and, among other places they visited a panorama of South Africa. The views were extremely interesting, and the couple were enjoying themselves to the full. As scene after scene passed, the woman's enthusiasm increased, and at length, turning to her husband, she exclaimed: "Oh, Sandy, this is really splendid. I could just sit here all my days."
"Ah, well, Jennie, woman," replied Sandy, to the mirth of those sitting near, "just sit you still there; I'll not grudge the farthing."

THE LITTLE WIDOW
A Mighty Good Sort of Neighbor to Have.

"A little widow, a neighbor of mine, persuaded me to try Grape-Nuts when my stomach was so weak that it could not retain food of any other kind," writes a grateful woman, from San Bernardino Co., Cal.
"I had been ill and confined to my bed with fever and nervous prostration for three long months after the death of my second boy. We were in despair until the little widow's advice brought relief.
"I liked Grape-Nuts food from the beginning, and in an incredibly short time it gave me such strength that I was able to leave my bed and enjoy my three good meals a day. In 2 months my weight increased from 95 to 112 pounds, my nerves had steadied down and I felt ready for anything. My neighbors were amazed to see me gain so rapidly, and still more so when they heard that Grape-Nuts alone had brought the change.
"My 4-year-old boy had eczema very bad last spring and lost his appetite entirely, which made him cross and peevish. I put him on a diet of Grape-Nuts, which he relished at once. He improved from the beginning, the eczema disappeared and now he is fat and rosy, with a delightfully soft, clear skin. The Grape-Nuts diet did it. I will willingly answer all inquiries. RED MEN ANNUAL MEETING.

Lexington.—With over 200 members of the Improved Order of Red Men present, and with Grand Sachem Wm. A. Crader, of Louisville, here to exemplify the work, the annual meeting of the Tenth district was held under the auspices of Mantonoma Tribe No. 1, of which Frank L. Smith is the presiding officer. The crack degree team of Cherokee Tribe No. 8, of Louisville, which has become famous throughout the state, was here to put on the adoption of warriors and chief degree for the benefit of thirteen candidates. Col. H. V. Kohn, secretary and treasurer of the Louisville Anzeiger, captain of the team, was present to see the work done. Great Sachem William A. Crader arrived in company with Great Chief of Records Frank L. Smith, of this city, who went to Louisville Friday to attend the district meeting in that city.

KILLS HIS NEIGHBOR.

Russellville.—James J. Dean shot and killed Pat White at Buena Vista Springs. One shot was fired from a double-barreled shotgun and White fell dead. Both were farmers and neighbors, living only about 200 yards apart, and are said to have had previous trouble. Immediately after the killing Dean came to town and surrendered to the sheriff. Dean is 40 years old and White was younger. At the time of the killing they were only a few feet apart.

OFFICERS ARE ELECTED.

Lawrenceburg.—At a meeting of the board of council the following officers were elected for the next two years: City treasurer, Harry B. McAfee; city clerk, Hardin B. Rippe; city attorney, F. R. The third city will be built on Main Boone, below the mouth of Potter's Fork, on the main line of the Lexington & Eastern road. At first some big mills will be installed.

NO OVERDRAFTS TO BE ALLOWED

Lexington.—No overdrafts in any of the Lexington banks are to be allowed after March 1, 1912.
Resolutions to that effect were unanimously adopted at a meeting of the Lexington Clearing House association, the signatures of all the banks in the city being affixed by official representatives.

CARPENTER BADLY HURT.

Paris.—Sol Current, a carpenter, fell from the Duncan avenue bridge over the L. & N. tracks, a distance of thirty feet, sustaining serious injuries. It is feared he is badly injured internally.

DELEGATE FROM KENTUCKY.

Maysville.—The Rev. M. S. Clark, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, South, of this city, left for Washington to attend the national Anti-Saloon League convention there.

to this effect have been openly discussed since the grand jury went into session.

Officers are reticent and decline to discuss the matter, but several prominent officials and citizens have been summoned to appear and testify.

SENATOR BAILEY BUYS TROTTER

Texas Statesman Will Get Back Into the Game

Lexington.—Senator Joseph W. Bailey, of Texas, who disposed of his breeding outfit at his Fairland farm, near here some time ago, while here announced that he again will enter the trotting horse game with a new outfit. At the Old Glory sales in New York, he purchased a number of brood mares, and also some younger horses, which were shipped here. The brood mares will be put in the stud at Fairland, and the younger horses sent to Memphis, where they will be trained by his former trainer, Harold Chiles.

LARGE BARN IS BURNED.

Mt. Sterling.—The large barn belonging to Mrs. Bettie Knox, near Sewell's Shop, was burned to the ground. A number of farm implements and 10,000 pounds of tobacco burned. The loss will reach $25,000, partly covered by insurance. The fire marshal will investigate the case, as incendiarism is suspected.

SUCCUMBS TO ILLNESS.

Hodgenville.—Senator Greenwood A. Taylor, aged 60 years, died here of Bright's disease. Senator Taylor was a well-known lawyer, having practiced in Hart and Larue counties for 35 years. He was born in Ceymore, Ky., was county attorney of Hart county, and has made his home in Hodgenville for the last 15 years. His wife and four sons survive him. Dr. W. B. Taylor, of Irvington, Ky. Phil and Ben, of Hodgenville, and Edward, aged 14.

SOME RACE DISTINCTION

Rockport.—Island Station, McLean county, is said to be the only Western Kentucky town which bars negroes, and not a single representative of the Ethiopian race is to be found there. Occasionally a colored man, beating his way on a freight train, stops off a few minutes, not knowing of the antipathy. He soon "heats it." Even the colored porters on the passenger trains are shy about getting off at Island, and when they do it is only for a moment.

Clothing can be cleaned by ammonia or benzine soap without danger. A safe substitute is gelatinized benzine in which 25 per cent benzine is added to a mass of soap, water and ammonia.

It can be handled without spilling; the amount of vapor given off is slight and the amount of inflammable material in it is small.

From a Gravestone.

I expected it, but I didn't expect it quite so soon.—Life.

HAD DONE HER PART.

"What are you goin' to give at the preacher's donation party, Mandy?"
"Lands sake! Nuthin'. Why, I give the preacher a real store necktie that cost 10 cents at his donation party only three years ago!"

Wanted—A Handhold.

Meandering Mike heaved such a deep sigh that his companion was moved to ask him what the matter was:

"I was just thinking about bad roads and the wonders of science," was the answer. "This earth is spinning round faster'n a railway train behind time."

"Well, we ain't fell off yet."
"No. But think of what a convenience it would be if we could have some place to grab on to while the territory slid under our feet until the place we wanted to go to come along."
—Youth's Companion.

The Paradox.

"My doctor is a paradoxical one."
"How so?"
"The more he reduced the swelling the higher the bills grew."
